PREFACE

In 1934 when Volume I of the American Catholic Who's Who was begun by Walter Romig a preface was written by George Hermann Derry, President of Marygrove College, Detroit. At that time he set the tone of this unique reference book by saying that the publication was designed not to exploit the individual as such but to individualize the person's contribution.

Dr. Derry pointed out that this reference work does not try to list the "best Catholics" but rather those who are perhaps best known in their field of endeavor. In that first preface he wrote:

"In fact, most of those in whom we take our highest pride, -- our nuns, our missioners, consecrated souls whose lives of prayer and praise, of penance, of loving and vicarious sacrifice, though 'hid with Christ in God,' bring down blessings unbounded upon countless communities they serve throughout the land -- all such are intentionally omitted; of them, we have nought to say: their characters and careers are already recorded, and will one day stand revealed for all the world to read, in the infinitely bigger and better Book of Life."

This 20th volume, like all others before it, does not list Walter Romig but he certainly deserves special mention. Without him there would have been no ACWW. It was his dedication which carried it through all these years.

When illness forced him to find another publisher he turned to the National Catholic News Service and that is how NC Publications, Inc. was born.

In this our first volume we honored Walter Romig's wish not to be listed but felt this preface and this volume should be dedicated to him in appreciation for all he has done since 1934 to seek out America's most famous Catholics.

Richard M. Guilderson, Jr.
Director, NC News Service
